

We claim:

1. A method of determining standard enzyme activity levels on a selected substrate comprising the steps of:

- 5 providing a sample containing said enzyme; adding a known quantity of said selected substrate to said sample; measuring the activity level of said enzymes on said selected substrate; and using said measured activity level as said enzyme's standard activity level for said known quantity of selected substrate.